Senator
Bill Finkbeiner
45th Legislative District

Dear Friends and Neighbors:

I hope this guide provides you with helpful information to find the resources you need and to help get you in touch with your elected officials.

Our government should be open and accessible at all levels for your input, questions and concerns.

I am particularly proud of helping the Legislature initiate the use of e-mail and create a legislative Web site. About 10 years ago, this technology was new when I started in the House of Representatives, and I think these online services have opened the door for more active participation at all levels of government and made legislators more approachable.

My office is always available to help you find the answers you need. Whether you have an urgent problem with a state agency, or are just seeking information, please do not hesitate to contact me. I also encourage you to keep in touch by letting me know your comments, questions or ideas regarding legislation.

Thank you for electing me to serve as your senator. It is an honor to represent the 45th District.

Sincerely,

Washington's Capitol Building and its surrounding campus make Olympia one of the nation's most beautiful state capitols.

The Capitol Campus is a year-round tourist destination and the Legislative Building is its center piece. Originally completed in 1927, the Capitol was refurbished for the state's Centennial in 1989.

Olympia visitors also can enjoy the Temple of Justice where the Supreme Court meets, the Governor's Mansion, the Old Capitol Building and several veterans' memorials situated on the 30-acre campus.

Capitol Tours: Public tours are held daily from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. every hour on the hour (registration not required). Larger groups or schools should call (360) 586-8687 to schedule a private tour.

Ambulance • Fire • Police • Emergencies

At any time of the day or night, you may contact needed emergency services simply by dialing 911 and giving the following information:

1. Nature of the emergency.
2. Exact location—street address, etc.
3. Number of the phone from which you are calling.

In an effort to keep mailing costs to a minimum, I'm combining our government guide with a brief session review.

It was an interesting session with a multi-billion-dollar budget to write, an active debate on transportation funding and intense pressure to address the election problems that have resulted in a prolonged elections challenge.

I hope you'll take a few minutes to catch up with what happened in the Legislature this year. As always, I encourage your feedback and comments.

State Budget a Challenge — But new taxes not necessary

While we all agree that basic government functions like education and social services need to be funded, I think this year's Legislature went a little crazy in the tax-and-spend department. Despite an upward adjustment in our March 17 revenue forecast, the Legislature refused to consider a priority-based spending plan that would have prevented new tax increases.

When the revenue forecast came out, we learned the state had about $700 million more to spend than previously expected. That meant the Legislature could increase spending for government programs and education by roughly 7 percent over the last budget with no new taxes whatsoever.

Even with this extra money, the Legislature overturned the state spending limit, increased taxes by more than $400 million, short-changed the state's pension fund by another $325 million, increased spending by 12 percent and added roughly 2,500 new employees to the state payroll.

I knew simply voting "no" on this budget wasn't good enough. That's why I supported an alternative budget called the "People's Budget," which would have funded our top priorities without raising any of your taxes. Here's a glimpse:

Education

- Fully funded the previously suspended education initiatives which are funded in the Legislature's budget through the resurrection of the state's death tax
- Fully funded levy equalization which is reduced in the final budget by $12.9 million

Higher Education

- Added more than 10,000 new enrollments— compared to the 7,900 provided in the budget that passed the Legislature
- Increased financial aid available to the middle class

Health Care

- Protected nursing home funding
- Maintained access via vendor rate increase for health care providers
- Retained verification and eligibility efforts for Medicaid

Environment and Parks

- Eliminated state parks day fees which are continued in the final budget
- Protected environmental funding by not raiding environmental accounts like the final budget did

Compensation

- Funded collective bargaining agreements for state workers in exchange for greater government efficiencies

Fiscal Responsibility

- Nearly tripled the ending fund reserve to prevent future budget shortfalls

Unfortunately, this alternative budget was never considered. The 2003-05 budget, which included no new taxes, has helped our economy bounce back more quickly than expected. Spending beyond our means—and raising taxes to do so— will set our economy back and put us at risk for lawsuits.

Transportation — a Different Kind of Gridlock

Two years ago, the Legislature made major changes to our transportation system by passing a 5-cent-per-gallon gas tax tied to specific transportation projects called the “Nickel Package.” I think people would agree that this gas tax increase has shown some good results. Projects are being built and completed, and in many cases, for less time and money due to project streamlining provisions we fought hard to include.

We've improved such tangled areas as the 167/I-405 interchange and helped ease congestion from Bellevue to Renton. There is still much to be done. This next year, the work on I-405 through Kirkland will start and should result in significant improvement in congestion relief and safety.

Part of the way we conceptualized those further improvements taking place was through the creation of Regional Transportation Improvement Districts, or RTIDs. The idea behind the RTID was to allow King, Snohomish and Pierce counties to present additional projects to the local community, with tax increases included to pay for it. So far though, voters have yet to see an RTID proposal at the ballot.

This session, to encourage our regional leaders to move forward with this important tool, we've approved another more significant gas tax increase to be phased-in over the next three years to generate another $8.5 billion for important projects that improve safety and reduce congestion .

This new package includes $992 million for future I-405 projects. These improvements will continue to focus on safety and traffic relief in our area. They will also bolster our economy by creating an additional 30 jobs for each $1 million spent on the construction of the new transportation projects. These are matching funds to help get us to the total needed to improve this highway. As an added incentive for regional leaders to contribute, these dollars—and those directed to other mega-projects like the Alaskan Way Viaduct— will be redirected to other projects if an RTID is not approved.

Improving the transportation infrastructure in our region has been a top priority for me as your State Senator, and I will continue to do what I can to help ease the congestion and safety problems which challenge our ability to move goods and services.

As someone who uses 405 daily to get to and from work, to drive my kids to and from school, and to take my family where we need to go, whether that is the video store or soccer practice, I know how important this arterial is to our neighborhoods and communities. I'm optimistic that the congestion problems which have clogged our freeways may begin to improve in the future, ensuring that this area remains as great a place for our children as it has been for us.

Reforming Our Election System

As the months have gone by after our last general election, many flaws and errors have been brought to light. Dead people voting, felons voting, and provisional ballots being bunched in with normal ballots are just a few of the problems that have surfaced.

It's been said, "In a democracy, it is not the voting that matters but the counting." The close results of the governor's race certainly have brought increased scrutiny to our elections system, and raised serious questions about the way we have counted votes and whose votes we have counted. No matter who you supported, we all should be concerned about the integrity of the system. It's clear some changes need to be made, and that's something I'm working on in Olympia.

So far, these efforts have had some positive results. Specifically, improvements have been made to the system to:

- Prevent the mingling of unverified provisional ballots with regularly cast ballots;
- Requiring some form of identification at poll sites; and
- Reviewing the voter rolls against other available databases such as the Department of Corrections and the Department of Health to prevent felons and dead people from voting.

Other improvements I would like to see include:

- Requiring photo identification at the polling location;
- Requiring some form of identification when registering to vote; and
- Prohibiting third-party vote-shopping if a voter fails to follow directions on his or her ballot.

The Governor's Election Reform Task Force identified these as areas of concern. I'm disappointed we failed to address the entire problem.
